Timisoara - The Sound of Music

Timisoara, Romania

Descriere Timisoara - The Sound of Music 3*, Timisoara, Romania

Since hundreds of years, Timisoara has imposed itself as a place of cultural melting point. Music could make, of course, no exception. Since the second half of the XVIIIth century, various music organizations existed between Timisoara's borders. 1871 marks the opening of the Philharmonic Society. The first concert, directed by Heinrich Weidt takes place on the 8th December 1871. Two vocal symphonic works are played: „Die Frithjofs Saga“ by Max Bruch and „Der Taucher“. During the years, well-known players like Johannes Brahms (1879), František Ondříek (1893), Jan Kubelik (1900) or Bela Bartok (1906) appear on the stage of the Philharmonic Society. In 1947, the Rumanian State Opera is opened. The building of the opera host by now four cultural institutions, sign of the strong intercultural interactions from Timisoara: the Romanian Opera, the Romanian national theater, the German states theater and the Hungarian theater “Csiky Gergely”. “Timisoara – the sound of music” invites you to discover a part of Romanian's culture, as well as the cultures which converted Timisoara in a meeting place of Serbian, Hungarian and German influences.
